‘Texas Rovers’ make donation to Precinct 2 Seniors

Harris County .- Eight members of the Dallas-based group ‘Texas Rovers’ arrived this morning to Harris County’s Wade Road Service Center carrying truckloads of food and other essential goods for Precinct Two seniors.

John Doner, a group member, started leading this donation project on Monday when he called the county’s Protection Services to inquire about the needs in the aftermath of Hurricane Ike. Gail Miller, Assistant Deputy Commissioner in Precinct Two responded positively to the offer. The goods could be best utilized by Homebound for Seniors, a service managed by Precinct2gether, a non-profit organization in charge of eight senior and community centers in East Harris County.

The value of the donation is in the neighborhood of $5,000 and it was personally delivered by eight group members. Commissioner Sylvia Garcia greeted the Texas Rovers at Wade Camp, the distribution center for all Precinct locations during the hurricane recovery period. “Our seniors are a top priority these days. And your help is so timely” said Garcia.

Two contingents, one from Austin and one from Dallas, met in East Harris County for the presentation of goods including food, first aid items, diapers and paper towels, among others.

“We coordinated everything through a blog on the Internet” said Doner, “and people responded immediately.”
